SPRING 2018

About us

Throughout our almost 25 years in business, we have been innovators. While we appreciate the simplicity of single- or even two- color designs, customers have been pushing us to provide more color varieties in both our products and decoration. We have made huge strides towards fulfilling our customers' want for easier and more affordable ways of expressing their message in full, vibrant colors.

Beyond perfecting the first generation decoration techniques used by others, we now employ patented color design transfer techniques that set us far ahead in the industry. This allows DiscountMugs, alone, the ability to keep pace with the colorful designs of our customers.

Color trends of the season

Grabbing attention is the key these days for brands; as the competition for your audiences' eyes has increased, so too has the need for brands to stand out. Businesses are using many things to deepen the connection with customers – color plays a big role in helping to make your brand memorable in the minds of your customer.

We see our clients using color in Spring to help promote warmth and positivity in their message. Our color decoration improvements have driven a far more refined view of logos by our customers – there rightfully exists an expectation that full color decoration is a necessary requirement for many brands.

About us

Full color - our forte, your advantage

As we have perfected our full color capabilities, we have also made our pricing more competitive such that in some cases, full-color decoration costs the same as a 1-color job!

You challenged us to develop methods to print more items in full color and we have delivered - we can now print in full color scales and palettes that removes many of the old limitations of colored design. So whether it's on apparel, whether the surface is flat or curved, we allow you to get your message across with the vibrancy it deserves.

Dinnerware

Drinkware and dinnerware are important components of events and branding. While some see these products merely as a practical device (i.e. a wineglass), we see that as another brand contact that reinforces the value of the service - reminding their customers of the brand, as they experience these benefits (eating/drinking) is very important. At a psychological level, a customer seeing your branding simultaneously while fulfilling her needs, makes a stronger emotional connection that leads to repeat business.

These benefits work well too on our disposable products - same logic and emotions are at play, by reinforcing the brand at the moment of enjoyment, businesses make a more lasting impression.

#WineLovers

Businesses are smart to brand themselves along with adult beverages – statistics show that Millennials are drinking more wine than the Baby-boomers. So, it's logical that branding on openers, aerators and wine stoppers makes sense for many businesses – given this trend, these products make excellent gifts or pass-alongs for businesses catering to adults of any age.

Father's Day gifting

Fathers too are worthy of celebration – whether serious or goofy, or a little bit of both, our Dads helped shape our worlds. They too appreciate the personal gift – depending on the Dad, a t-shirt, a set of glasses or a photo mug might all make sense. Also, retail shops would be wise to carry some male-skewing products that celebrate Dads – in past years, we have seen orders ranging from Tech, to Drinkware and golf supplies.

Sports and outdoors

As temperatures rise across the country, everyone wants to get back outside and start moving again. This creates a big surge in interest across both Sports and Outdoor products. Many of our business clients purchase branded products in both categories to both sell and give away. Our selection allows those that want to offer a more special item or ones that can be given away in bulk. Similarly, there are many consumers that are organizing fundraising events or teams that use our best in class screen printing to get their message heard.

Tech style

Merchandizing branded tech products fulfills a specific niche for many businesses. Technology buyers are often big spenders, and often influential to others. So many of our tradeshow and retail customers use tech as a way to give their brand a leading edge feel – some give away inexpensive tablet pens while others give away richer memory or charging banks. For those looking to communicate a future-leaning message, tech is the place where we can help you be successful.
